

Naivelt נייזעלעס News

This Week

- Saturday
 - 1:00 PM: Pool time and Aquafit
 - Night Event: Music Camp Concert
- Sunday
 - 10:00 AM: Bagel Brunch with Anna Shternshis on recovering lost Yiddish songs (hosted by Barb Lipton and Larry Adler, Hill 1, Cabin 6)
 - 12:00 PM – 4:00 PM: Making bagels with Alan and Sarit at the Lasowsky
 - 1:00 PM: Pool time and Aquafit

Bagel-Making Workshop

Let us be your guides as you learn to make bagels from scratch. During this hands-on workshop, you will help to choose the ingredients; and mix, proof, knead, rise, shape, boil, seed, and bake bagels to golden perfection. All ages welcome. No experience needed! The workshop begins at 12 PM sharp, breaks for one hour at 1 PM (to allow the dough to rise, and participants to go swimming), resumes at 2 PM, and wraps up around 3:30 PM.

-Alan and Sarit Cantor

Bagel Brunch

Welcome to Anna Shternshis, Director of the Anne Tanenbaum Centre for Jewish Studies at the University of Toronto. She will be talking about her now famous discovery of a collection of Yiddish songs by refugees, soldiers and Soviet Jewish evacuees about the war, during the war. She will talk about these songs, her partnership with musicians to bring them to life and the ensuing international response. The resultant recording is called “Yiddish Glory: The Lost Songs of WWII” and has received international acclaim, including a Grammy Award nomination for World Music. It’s an amazing story and beautiful music. The Bagel Brunch will take place on Hill 1, and Naivelt is pleased to be part of her world travels presenting the acclaimed “Yiddish Glory.”

-Paula David

Next Week

- Saturday
 - 1:00 PM: Pool time and Aquafit
 - Night Event: Bollywood dancing
- Sunday
 - 10:00 AM: Bagel Brunch with Sadie Epstein-Fine: Spawning Generations: Rants and Reflections on Growing Up with LGBTQ+ Parents (hosted by Marsha Fine, Hill 1)
 - 1:00 PM: Pool time and Aquafit

Music Camp

Our Naivelt summer is off to a beautiful start with our intrepid musicians back for another round of Music Camp. We have a small but mighty group consisting of instrumentalists and vocalists and by midweek have made enthusiastic progress! This group knows they are fortunate to be working with Martin van de Ven and Ameena Bajer-Koulack who so generously share their talents, their love of Klezmer music and their commitment to pull our eclectic range of talents together to make music! This year we have a delightful mix of ages, stages and skills and the sounds drifting through the hills from both the Lac and the Ritz are promising a great Saturday night concert. Invite your friends and family and by the time Saturday night rolls around Naivelters can be prepared for a fun and freilach concert.

-Paula David

Thanks to Karen Gold, Paula David, and Nicole Bennett for the photos.

Birthday Announcement

Please wish Zohar Jaeger-Segal, who turned 13 on Thursday, a happy birthday!

Creative Camp

Our new and exciting Creative Camp Week is approaching and we're putting out a call for some craft materials. Please start saving yogurt/sour cream containers to recycle as carvings, water containers, etc. and drop them off at Cabin 10, Hill 1. We also need some gently used coloured paper sheets (regular printing paper) for the papermaking class and any other materials that may work for the listed activities. Check the updated schedule and note that there are projects to suit every taste from the very young to the very mature!

-Paula David

Creative Camp Schedule

For a detailed schedule of planned activities, see next page in the print version or separate document in the electronic version. Unless specified, materials will be supplied.

Victor and Kevin hard at work installing the new Hill 2 speed bump. Photo courtesy of Gord Meslin.